Boligmappa is looking for tech talent to take the platform to the next level!

Boligmappa is Norways largest Proptech platform. We make the life-cycle management of homes simpler, more secure and reduce illicit work through digital transformation. We make it easier to own a property and save our users a lot of time while doing so. The platform is growing fast and we need the best technical talent to take it to the next level. Sounds cool?
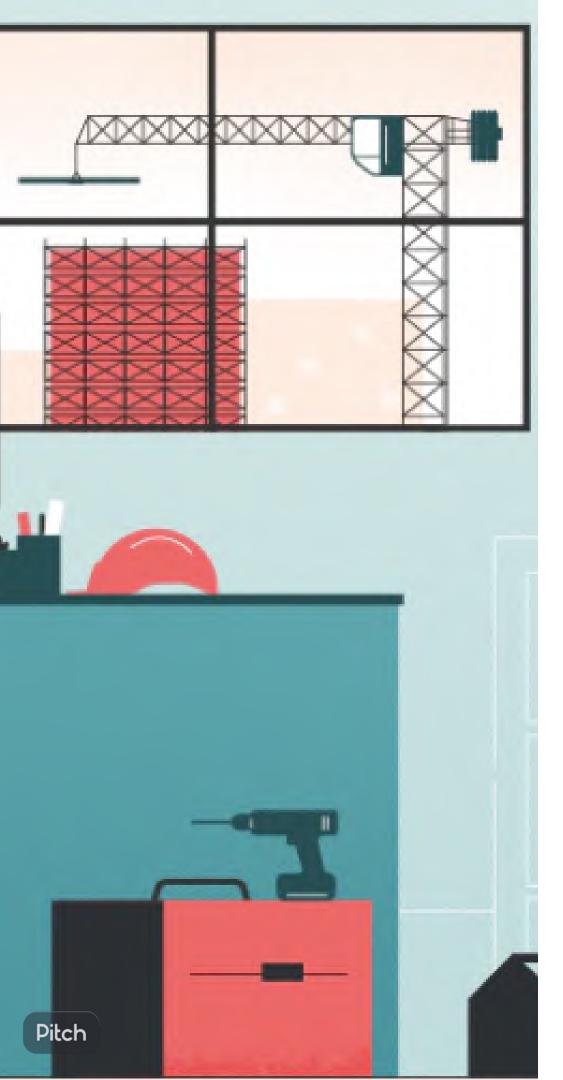

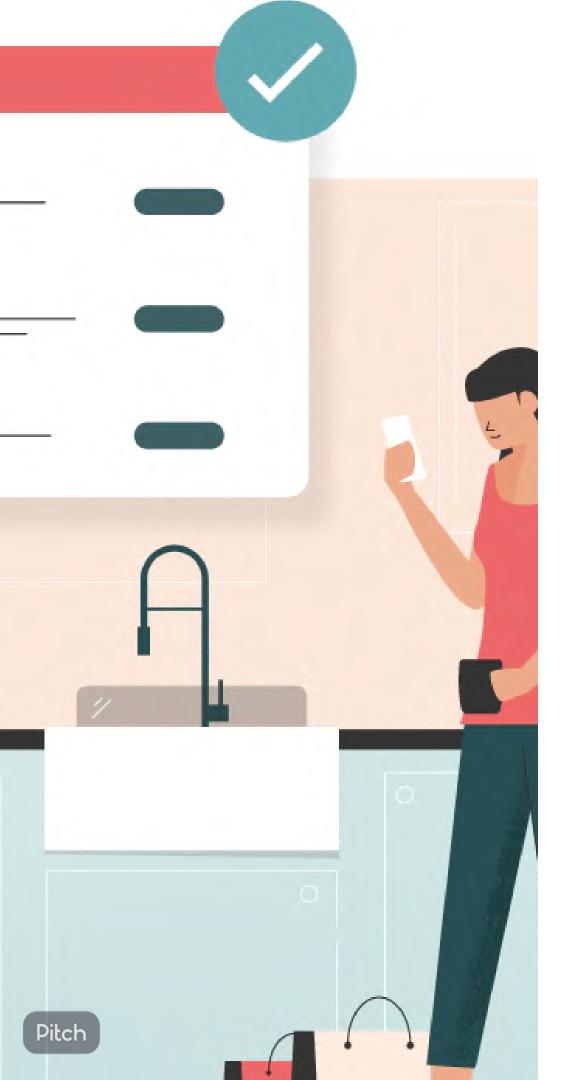

Tech we're using

What do we offer?

- A fantastic place to work in a fast growing scale-up

- Flexible working hours

- Interesting professional challenges and exciting product development

- Nordic work/life balance, flat structure

- You are free to choose both hardware and software that brings out the best in you

- Time for, and an expectation of, active competence building when it comes to new technologies

- Social and active work environment, team gatherings both domestically and internationally

Who are you?

Someone who likes a fast-paced environment, you get motivated by technical challenges and continuously make decisions that have a direct positive impact for the users.

You are a pro-active, dedicated professional who likes to get things done. You are top of your class and proud yourself with your technical abilities. You are a role model for others and make the people around you become their best.

About our Scale-up

- Boligmappa is growing rapidly and we are expanding our technology team across multiple international locations to boost our upward trajectory.

- We continuously improve our stack, and we expect you to join us on our journey towards simpler and better services for our users. In Boligmappa you will be part of a product team which works based on Lean Startup methodology, close to the users and with a daily release cadence.

- We run our infrastructure on AWS and we have a high focus on micro-services and DevOps.

- With extensive data from our 600.000+ users, over 50 integration partners and 4.500 corporate customers, we are in a prime position to develop exciting innovations both internally and with external partners.

- In 2020 we've developed a progressive web application (React) for consumers with open API's under the hood, new brand identity and Wordpress-site. In 2021 our API platform has gotten a boost, and our applications targeting non-consumer segments is being upgraded to new architecture, as well as a major over-haul of our core system to allow for higher scalability.

About our Scale-up

Boligmappa is a platform for homeowners, service providers, real estate agents, regulatory authorities and others. We provide life-cycle data of Norwegian properties. The platform has experienced rapid growth in recent years, both in users, customers and new industries. Boligmappa was started in 2011. Today we have 600.000+ property owners and more than 4.500 companies that use the platform, through our own applications and more than 50 different integration partners.

Join our cause, it will be fun - pinky promise 🚀